(a) Up to and including 1958 average rainfall for each year (represented by 100) is the average over the period 1911-1940. As from 1st January, 1959, a long period average from a selection of representative stations is used.

SEASONAL CONDITIONS—TASMANIA.

Rainfall.—Except for the dry East Coast, all agricultural areas received 60 per cent or more of their normal rainfall for June, 1962. The pattern can be summarised as follows:—

2 to $2\frac{1}{2}$ times normal:—West Coast, western Central Plateau, western Derwent Division.

1 to 2 times normal:—Midlands, North, eastern Central Plateau, eastern Derwent, part of South-eastern Division.

Below normal:—Remainder of State with the East Coast and large parts of the Midland and South-eastern Division markedly dry.

Rainfall varied from as much as 30 inches on the West Coast highlands to as low as $1\frac{1}{2}$ inches on the East Coast. Rain was spread fairly evenly over the whole month with the heaviest falls on the 6th/7th and the 16th/17th.

Temperature.—Both day and night mean temperatures were generally well above average. Largest departures were:—

Four to Five Degrees above mean day normal:—Some stations in Southeast.

Four to Six Degrees above mean night normal:—Inland highland stations.

Apart from highland stations, mean maxima ranged from 60° on the East Coast to 55° at other coastal stations; at highland stations, mean maxima fell slightly below 50° . Mean minima ranged from the upper thirties at highland stations to the high forties in other areas.

Frosts, &c..—Frosts were heaviest on 10th, 18th, 22nd and 26th with inland grass temperatures in the low twenties. Light frosts persisted throughout the rest of the month in highland areas. The heaviest fall of snow was on the 21st and 22nd when areas in Southern Tasmania were blanketed below 1,000 feet and 6 inches lay on the Central Plateau.

Floods.—1st and 2nd—moderate, South Esk. 16th—moderate, northern rivers. 17th—moderate, Huon and Derwent systems. 22nd—minor, Huon River. The Tasman, Lake and Channel Highways and the Lake Dobson road were all cut by floods or landslides on the 17th.

Water Supplies.—Still poor in some East Coast areas.

Pastures and Stock.—Poor areas on Flinders Island and some parts of East Coast.
